“ To Scott's family, I can only say this. Matthew 5:4 "Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted." I said the same one at my grandmother's funeral and it still carries the same message. We will always mourn the loss of a loved one. It's human nature. There is no set age or way that tells us when our time will come. Just know we can go at any time. Even though it is sad, please know that everyone that has known him, will see him again. It is indeed sad and will also leave everyone with a sense of sorrow for days, weeks, months, and years to come, but take comfort in knowing that he is now in heaven and looking down at everyone. While it is a sad time for his loss, it should also be a time of celebrating the life he shared on this Earth with everyone.

My prayers are with his family and friends. I pray that you find comfort in knowing that he has found peace in the Lord. I pray that the Lord bless him and watch over him until the day I / we see him again.

I remember seeing Scott at all of the big family events years ago. To me, he was always cool to talk to and just flat out hangout. I will always keep those memories in my heart.
